It should be noted that the results of the present study are consistent with those of other studies. For example, a study by Smith et al. (1998) found that the use of a decision support system (DSS) in a medical diagnosis task led to improved performance and reduced errors. Similarly, a study by Jones et al. (2001) found that the use of a DSS in a financial analysis task led to improved performance and reduced errors. These findings suggest that the use of a DSS can be beneficial in a variety of tasks, including those that require complex decision-making.
