Figure 1. A 3D plot of the probability of a correct response as a function of the number of correct responses in the previous trial (x-axis) and the number of correct responses in the current trial (y-axis). The z-axis represents the probability of a correct response. The plot shows a positive correlation between the number of correct responses in the previous trial and the current trial, with the probability of a correct response increasing as the number of correct responses increases.
